MONTPELIER

Widow of Timothy J. Kelliher Died After Year's Illness.

Mrs. Charlotte Livingston Kelliher, widow of Timothy J. Kelliher, a pioneer granite manufacturer of this city, died yesterday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock at her home, 7 St. Paul street. Her illness dated from a year ago last July. The deceased was born in Ontario, Canada, 62 years ago and resided during the first 16 years of her life in that country. Since that time she lived in Montpelier and was married 22 years ago. No children were born to them. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Stephen Byce of Forster Falls, Ont., and three brothers, William, John and James Livingston, all of Ontario. She also leaves many nieces and nephews, all residing in Canada excepting two nephews in Waterville. One niece, Miss Ida Livingston, has been with Mrs. Kelliher since last June, when her illness became serious. Mr. Kelliher died July 15, 1905. Mrs. Kelliher was a member of the Catholic church and the funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Augustine's church with Rev. P. J. Long officiating. Burial will be in the Catholic cemetery beside the body of her husband.

The school census enumeration has been completed by C. DeF. Bancroft and the statistics have been compiled and turned over to S. C. Hutchinson, superintendent of schools. The census shows that there are 844 males and 836 females between the ages of five and 18 years in Montpelier. There are 432 between the ages of five and eight years, 1,022 between eight and 16 years, and 226 between 16 and 18 years. There is an increase in the number of children over the previous year but it is difficult to estimate the actual number because of the change in the law made by the last legislature, which also changed the time for the taking of the census. The law at the present time requires that children not five years old until Sept. 1 shall not be included in the census, whereas formerly if a child would reach the age of five on or before Jan. 1 of the winter following the taking of the census, the name was included. Another change which serves to reduce the figures is that anyone who is 18 years old before Sept. 1 shall not be enumerated. Mr. Bancroft commenced today to renumber the entire length of Elm street, acting in accordance with a vote taken by the city council at the last regular meeting. He expects some difficulty because of the fact that old residents object strongly against the change, in a number being made.

Manager Ray T. Ladden of the local Western Union telegraph office, Harold Ladden, Raymond S. Cullen and Harold Smith, returned last evening from a week's automobile trip to Portland and Old Orchard, Me., and Boston. They were in Boston last Wednesday and were present at the opening of the new home of the Braves in Allston. The trip from Old Orchard, 191 miles, was made easily yesterday despite the roads, which were very muddy.

Degeneration of the County Fair.

In the September Woman's Home Companion appears a practical article about farm life—full of suggestions to city people who want to get back to the land. In the course of the article the author gives the following account of the down-fall of the old-time New England county fairs:

"I thought a good agricultural fair would be just the thing for us."

"But when I actually got to the fair and looked it over, I was keenly disappointed. These local district fairs in New England are greatly degenerated from their former estate. They are still supported and exploited in the name of agriculture, though horse racing, polo, and the cheap amusement of midway 'attractions' are the only forms of agriculture visible."

"In the matter of the leghorn chickens we found ourselves hopelessly outclassed by three professional exhibitors. These men, it seems, make the rounds of the fairs and the poultry shows with towels specially tied and matched to fit the official wear and all carefully conditioned. Squabblers, geese, are pulled, remaining feathers are bleached, and the whole fowl put into a bluing bath like the pillow cases at the laundry. No farmer can compete with these exhibitors."
